ABOUT US

Over the past two years, Deloitte professionals have come together for our clients, communities, and each other to face the substantial challenges of the star global pandemic. We continue to be deeply grateful and committed to helping our people thrive as we experience significant growth in our business and transition to a hybrid future of work. one of the leading advisors on the future of work, it is important that we lead by example and are continually evolving our approach to rewards, recognition and well-being for our people. We have consistently innovated over the years, such as our expansion of our comprehensive benefits at the start of the pandemic through our Deloitte Cares program, which included enhanced financial support for childcare, monetary assistance to support virtual work needs, and programs to support professionals' well-being needs. Most recently, our "We are Deloitte" effort is providing more than $1 billion of additional investments in our people, to reflect our appreciation for all they are doing and our confidence in our bright future. "We are Deloitte" includes many elements, for example: We initiated a work-from-home technology subsidy of $500, and a temporary expansion of reimbursable commuting expenses to enhance hybrid work, further enable the transition to new ways of working, and to help our professionals feel safe connecting with each other in person
